SLAVERY IN KENTUCKY.—Below we give an extract from a letter recently written by Governor Bramlette of Kentucky to Gen. Brisbin, on the subject of slavery in that State. It will afford much gratification to all who have the perception to see that perfect peace and harmony can come only from the complete extinguishment of slavery in all parts of the South, to observe that the Executive of Kentucky takes so rational a view of the matter as this letter shows him to do. In the free States there are many who still cling to the idea that slavery can and ought to be continued, entirely ignoring the fact that every State which still retains it, considers it a burden and a curse. Here is the extract from the letter to which we alluded above:

I concur with you in the opinion that a prosperous and healthy system of regulated labor cannot be regained in Kentucky except upon a free basis. The result of the rebellion has been to withdraw from slave labor all protection, and to destroy the power to protect it. The fact of the rebellion has been to revolutionize the popular judgment upon the subject of slavery, and fix upon it the inexorable decree of "extermination." Were all the legitimate powers of the Government now exerted to foster into vigor, instead of to destroy, it may well be questioned whether this would succeed in building it up; whether rightfully or wrongfully is needless now to inquire. Slavery is regarded by the masses as the fruitful source of all our woes, and as inimical to our future peace and unity. This revolution cannot go backwards. As men of prudence and patriotism, we must accept the logic of events and recognize existing facts. That slavery must end, I accept as one of the facts ordained by this revolution, wrought out by rebellion. That it should end as speedily as possible, is corollary which a practical wisdom and prudent common sense must deduce from the demonstration of our experiences. Our whole labor system is broken up and utterly demoralized; slavery has become an incubus upon our energies; a burden to our advancement, and a negation to our prosperity. There is no hope for improvement under the present regime, nor the slightest prospect of growing better until the revolution has been fully accomplished in universal emancipation. The transition period from slave labor must ever be embarrassing and deleterious to prosperity. It is, therefore, in my judgment, the requirement of wisdom and of a prudent regard to our best interests and highest prosperity, as well as the mandate of an exalted patriotism, that we should conform, as readily and speedily as practicable, to this decree of the revolution—foreordained by the rebellion—and now sealed with the unalterable judgment of the American people. The scholium which I deduct from the logic of events is, that the proposed amendment to the Constitution is the most direct, practical and legitimate mode now left to us, to escape the present and impending evils of an interregnum in labor, a dearth in industry, and a suspension of production.

A SCENE AT THE BATTLE OF FIVE FORKS.—On the left of our line the rebels fought with stern determination. A colonel with a shattered regiment came down upon us on a charge. The bayonets were fixed; the men came on with a yell; their gray uniforms seemed black amid the smoke; their preserved colors, torn by grape and ball, waved defiantly; twice they halted, and poured in volleys, but came on again like the surge from the fog, depleted, but determined; yet in the hot faces of the carbineers they read a purpose as resolute, but more calm, and, while they pressed along, swept all the while by scathing volleys, a group of horsemen took them in the flank. It was an awful instant; the horses recoiled; but at once the rebels, with rare organization, fell into a hollow square, and with solid sheets of steel defied our centaurs. The horsemen rode around them in vain; no charge could break the shining square, until our dismounted carbineers poured in their volleys afresh, making gaps in their spirit and ranks, and then in their wavering time the cavalry thundered down. The rebels could stand no more; they reeled and swayed, and fell back broken and beaten; and on the ground their colonel lay sealing his devotion with his life.

Major General Sigel, having tendered and received his resignation, is now chief editor of the Wecker, one of the best Republican papers published in Baltimore, Md.

Chances for a Foreign War

The United States has now risen to the very almost height of martial renown. Our people are now in no mood to seek for a war merely to subserve the ends of military glory. If any desire of this kind was ever prevalent among them it is now entirely gone. A state of war is altogether foreign to the spirit of our system and the direct opposite of our governmental polity. There seems to be little probability of a war with a foreign power unless our country suddenly becomes aggressive and purposely endeavors to provoke hostilities. There are it is true some claims which have to be enforced against both England and France, but firmness in demanding reparation for the indignities offered our Government by these two powers, and for the losses we have sustained at their hands, will deliver us from the dangers of threatened war. England is now halting and shuffling preparatory to making full indemnity for the destruction of our vessels by rebel cruisers. Her present attitude in relation thereto shows that she will eventually fully reimburse our Government for these losses in so far as she is made responsible for them. Nor will it be an act of self humiliation on the part of England to restore to us the value of what we have lost through the course she has taken in regard to the rebellion. Such a procedure is but an act of justice, and has numerous precedents in the law of nations. Accordingly it is not likely that England will hesitate very long to make us that recompense which our Government is so justly demanding. So we think there is no danger of a war with this great power. The tone of a portion of the English press is hostile and defiant, but when it is remembered that those papers were the firm friends of the rebels and urged the British Government to recognize the "Confederacy," it will be understood that they are merely malevolent toward us and do not reflect the general sentiment of the English people.

Perhaps there is a greater probability that we may have a war with France than with Great Britain. The Mexican imbroglio seems to be no nearer a solution than it was a year or two ago. If Maximilian remains long upon the throne to which his master has raised him, unquestionably we will sometime have a war with France. But indications are not wanting to show that the Austrian despot in Mexico, whose scepter is held by so feeble a grasp, and whose imperial honors depend on so precarious a tenure, has it in contemplation to retire from America to a country where Republican ideas and Republican influences do not come to disturb the repose of royalty, or cause the head to lie uneasy, that wears a crown.

The Liberals in Mexico seem to be in a fair way to deliver themselves by their own unaided efforts from the yoke which foreign despotism has placed upon them. The French troops are constantly harassed by the patriot armies and are making no advances in the way of subjugating the country. As rapidly as they gain one place, another is recovered from them. They will not long continue this hopeless and profitless warfare. The prize is great, but the cost will not justify its acquisition. In addition to his other difficulties, Maximilian is now also silently threatened by the United States with the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine against him, and hence the most reasonable supposition is, that as soon as he can do so without unbefitting haste, he will withdraw with as little ostentation as possible from the empire which he has falsely claimed as his own, but whose people have repudiated him from the beginning as an intruder and a tyrant.

Hence we think that if our Government exhibits a suitable and dignified firmness without undue precipitancy, we shall have no foreign war. Peace not war, is the wish of our people now. While we would not abate one farthing of our just claims on England for indemnification, nor retract from a single position ever held by this Government on the subject of interference by foreign powers in the affairs of this Continent, we think such a course ought to be taken in relation to our external policy as will comport with our national dignity without forcing any other power to battle by the enormousness and exacting nature of our demands.

RELIEF FOR THE SOUTH.—In many parts of the South the people are in a most pitiable and distressing condition. Aid is now reaching them from the North, but it is impossible for the wants of all to be adequately supplied and suffering entirely averted. A late number of the Raleigh Progress has the following statement:

Humanity demands that the condition of our people be spread out before the world. Our subsistence is exhausted; our people are starving. A few weeks, and the cries of helpless women and children, both white and colored, will be heard through the land. It is inevitable, unless something is done, and done quickly to relieve them. Supplies must come from abroad. How shall we get them? Our financial affairs are in ruins and we are not able to help ourselves. Have we no friends abroad who will pity us?

Now that the people of the South have ceased to make war, the benevolence, magnanimity and generosity of those whom they sought to destroy are being fully evinced by acts of considerate kindness and substantial aid. All over the North societies have sprung up having for their object the alleviation of the wants of the needy in the South. With admirable forgetfulness of the wrongs they have endured the Northern people regard those who have injured them with feelings only of charity pity and benignity. In receiving such treatment as is now offered them the people of the South cannot fail to perceive that they have hitherto utterly mistaken the Northern character. Instead of the vengeance they looked for they receive mercy and pardon instead of being plundered of what remains to them they are recipients of unexpected bounty. Treatment like this cannot but soothe the apprehensions of the people of the late rebellious States and heal all the wounds the war has made.

TRYING TO RESCUE HIS FRIEND.—Charles O'Conor the attorney who has applied for permission to defend Jeff Davis, is a man of superior abilities and much legal knowledge. He is, however one of the most ultra of all Northern traitors. He believes in the dogma of supreme State sovereignty, the divinity of slavery and the right of rebellion. It is quite fitting that a distinguished Northern Democrat should undertake the defence of the great leader of his party. In his admiration of the course of Jeff Davis the eminent advocate will probably insist as other "Democrats" do, that there has been no rebellion. The alacrity with which O'Conor springs to the defence of the rebel chief proves that in shielding him from punishment for his crimes he thinks that he is performing a laudable work. It is honorable for a man of known integrity to brave public opinion by defending a criminal whom every one wishes to condemn without a hearing, but for a person of O'Conor's antecedents to catch so eagerly at an opportunity to exculpate Jeff Davis cannot inspire respect for him as a man or an advocate among right thinking people but must produce a directly opposite result. Were Vallandigham to seek an opportunity to screen Jeff Davis the people would be justly indignant, for O'Conor to do so is hardly less objectionable.

[illegible] the State of Oregon vs. Charles Stewart. The case was submitted to the jury [illegible] yesterday and after remaining out all night the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The defendant was charged with assault with intent to kill. [illegible] to set aside the verdict, [illegible] arrest the judgment. The motion was overruled by the Court but sentence has not been passed upon him yet. The other case is that of the State of Oregon vs. William Gamble charged with murder in the first degree. The trial was held [illegible] the jury has not yet returned its verdict. The defendant is most likely to be convicted. The defence rests upon a plea of insanity, and I am told the evidence upon the point is very weak. [illegible] Sunday traders [illegible] know—some are.

THE WEATHER.

It rains here in the summer time. It has been raining now two days and there is not visible at this time a spot of sky large enough for a vest pattern.

OTHER THINGS.

I can't gossip any. I never could. But I can tell you a fact and that is that the grasshoppers have just about destroyed all the gardens up here. The swarms of them beat those of the Willamette at the time of the great grasshopper invasion some years ago.

The deluged district of Canyon City is being rapidly rebuilt. Business is beginning to look up. Everybody is looking a little better than when I wrote you before but there is not now the life and vigor in business affairs that marked Canyon City a year ago. What a hurry I am in!

Yours truly, [illegible]

NEWS FROM COEUR D'ALENE MINES.—From Mr. Charles Wilson who reached this city the first of this week direct from the Coeur d'Alene Mission we obtained the following important information relative to the mining prospects and other matters in that section of country.

Mr. Wilson in company with four other gentlemen, left Walla Walla on the 22d day of April on a prospecting tour in the Coeur d'Alene mountain range and arrived at the Mission on the [illegible] of May. This side of the Mission on a tributary creek of the Coeur d'Alene river, the company found sufficient gold prospects to justify them in the belief that they had struck diggings which would pay for working. Going above the Mission a short distance they next prospected on a small stream called Trout Creek, which empties into the main river from the north side and found still better prospects than they had obtained below. They judged from the prospects [illegible] along this creek that the diggings when worked with sluices, would yield from ten to fifteen dollars per day to the hand. The gold found on the creek was of the heavy [illegible] order and looked to be of good quality. The ledge rock along a portion of the creek is of granite formation and along the other portion is slate resembling, accurately, the slate ledges of California. The gravel which covers the bed rock is mostly quartz and an earthly wash. The prospectors leaving Trout Creek, next turned their footsteps toward the headwaters of the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river keeping altogether on the north side of the stream. The country near the river is covered with a dense growth of timber. As the party desired to keep as near to the stream as practicable they pushed on through the forest a short distance, but with great difficulty and finding the timber becoming thicker and heavier as they advanced and progress slow and tedious they struck out to the north, and attained the summit of a high mountain ridge. The ridge was sparsely wooded, and the party traveled along without hindrance of any kind, and finally found themselves near the head waters of the river and in a great basin which appeared to be as extensive as that in which the Boise mines are situated. This basin is drained by a number of small streams, and is well timbered throughout its whole extent. The basin possesses all the characteristics common to the richest gold bearing districts. Slate bed rock was invariably found wherever the company sunk prospect holes in the basin and the surface of the ground was covered in all directions with quartz, gravel and boulders. Fair [illegible] prospects were obtained in different places and the gold was unusually coarse. Mr. Wilson gives it as his opinion that the richest diggings in the Coeur d'Alene country will be developed in this basin. On the 11th inst. Mr. Wilson left his companions who were to continue prospecting in the basin and started for Walla Walla for supplies to take back with him. While on the road to this place he saw some persons who had come direct from the Bitter Root valley, and they told him that at the time they left the valley, news was current there, and deemed reliable, that rich gold mines had been discovered late in the spring on the head waters of the Deer Lodge River, and also that new diggings were found about the same time on Prickly Pear river that the new discoveries in all in that region amounted to nine distinct camps.

Mr. Wilson further informed us that he met on his way down from Antoine Plante's ferry to the ferry on Snake river some parties from Lewiston who were en route for the Coeur d'Alene diggings and they told him that they had first attempted to reach the mines by starting direct across the country from Lewiston, but on account of the swampy condition of that route and overflow of the ground by water they were compelled to turn back and take the Mullan Wagon road and had got so far on the way into the mines.

Mr. Wilson says the best road and the only practicable route to the Coeur d'Alene Mission is the one known as the "Mullan Road." He further says that he would rather take freight from Walla Walla to the Mission at six cents per pound than from Walla Walla to Idaho City (Boise mines) at the rate of eighteen cents per pound. The wagon road to the mission [illegible] in other words, [illegible] and teaming over it must necessarily prove to be cheap and expeditious. The only obstruction to teaming now over the road is some fallen timber which blocks the way for a short distance, and which would require but a few days labor to remove.

From persons who have had a personal acquaintance with Mr. Wilson for several years we learn that his word [illegible] and they have an abiding faith that he [illegible] with four others [illegible] Coeur d'Alene mountains [illegible]. Owing to the swollen state of the streams and the short time spent in prospecting [illegible] the party could not give positive information about the richness and extent of the mines but from what prospecting was done [illegible] the party were firmly of the opinion that the mines would [illegible] rich and extensive. [illegible] of the country, but it appeared [illegible] from the high ridges [illegible] and mountainous.—W. W. Statesman.

MARYLAND LOYALISTS.—The citizens of Washington county, Maryland, have held a meeting, and resolved that no [illegible] county who [illegible] be permitted to return. The Common Council of Baltimore [illegible] against permitting any of the disloyal citizens who left that city to visit the rebels to come back. [illegible]

Their presence in our midst will be a constant source of trouble [illegible] And we respectfully ask our military authorities in the [illegible] and emphatic language [illegible] danger [illegible] all probability [illegible] collisions terrible in their consequences.

It is slavery not freedom, that rots in amalgamation.

JEFF DAVIS TO BE TRIED FOR TREASON.—It must not be supposed that the Government is unable to prove the ring leader of the rebellion guilty of complicity in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln and has accordingly abandoned the attempt. The testimony already taken renders it certain that he was privy to the murder. The Bulletin's editorial correspondent shows, however, why he will be tried first for treason:

The Government has publicly charged Jeff Davis with complicity in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, and, of course, he might be tried upon that charge, before the military commission now sitting at Washington. Treason, however, is the greater crime, and there is little doubt that he will be tried on the latter charge first of all. Now that the criminal is in the hands of the Government there is no special necessity for [illegible] a commonplace assassin in order to secure his extradition such as there would have been had he escaped to foreign shores. The evidence upon which he has already been denounced as a dastardly murderer, can be brought out sufficiently in the trials of Booth's immediate accomplices to vindicate the action of the Government. Indeed, it has already appeared from the testimony of witness Weichman in the pending trials that John H. Surratt, son of Mrs. Surratt, visited Richmond prior to his going to Canada early in April last and that when [illegible] Lincoln, he was informed of the surrender of the rebel capital, he [illegible] that he (Surratt) had [illegible] with Davis and Benjamin [illegible] Weichman's evidence [illegible] however sufficient to fasten suspicion on Davis and Benjamin. [illegible]

[illegible] with Samuel B. Reed [illegible] the great railroad which shall connect the Atlantic and Pacific States and in a large degree lessen in effect the long time and distance which separates them.

[illegible] of the 28th of [illegible] New York [illegible] in December. He immediately reported at the Central Office of the Company in that city [illegible]

The Board of Directors was in session at the time and were highly pleased with the report and survey. From them an estimate was made as to the probable cost of the road, which happily proved far less than had been anticipated. The reception which Reed met with here and the hearty cooperation extended by President Young, gave great satisfaction.

In the East, the work is progressing; the road is already graded for miles west of Omaha, and the laying of the track is to commence on the 15th of this month. When Reed left Omaha there were 800 men employed and efforts were being made to obtain more. By this time the number is probably increased to 1,000. Most of the iron it is said will come from Pittsburg, and the contract is already made for the delivery there of all that will be needed for 100 miles of the road.

The only portion of the route eastward yet determined upon is a length of about 180 miles, beginning at Omaha and running westward on the north side of the Platte to the junction of the two forks of that river. Some portions of last year's survey through the Black Hills and in a west-through South Pass are to be more thoroughly explored this season and reported, when probably the remainder of the route will be decided upon.

It is not very likely that any portion of the work in this valley will commence until another season. It was contemplated to begin grading, etc., in this Territory the present Summer, but the explorations elsewhere will cause delay.

Read and party expect to start on Monday next. Their first field of operation is North Weber, then to the head of Echo Canyon, from which it is designed to run a line to the South Pass.

Read then purposes to go to Spanish Fork, to test the practicability of a route from the Wasatch range to Uinta Valley and thence west to the California line in the valley of the Truckee. It is a matter of doubt, until the survey is made, whether they will strike out in a westerly direction by South Pilot Peak to the Humboldt Pass following the Humboldt clear down to the Truckee desert, or in almost a due west line across the deserts by way of Hastings Pass to the Valley of the Truckee. The latter route in all probability would save eighty miles.—[Salt Lake Telegraph.

STAGE LINES.—No little curiosity is felt by many as to what the arrangements existing between the Umatilla and Walla Walla stage lines are. There is no secrecy about the matter, and any one applying at the proper place can have their curiosity satisfied. We have asked a few questions and these are the facts elicited. It was thought desirable that a daily line for Idaho should run from the Columbia river, and were the two lines to act in concert that object would be attained. Ish & Haily run their stages on alternate days from Umatilla to Uniontown, by the way of La Grande. From Uniontown, Thomas & Co. run daily to Miller's on Burnt river. From Miller's Ish & Haily run a daily line to Idaho and Boise cities, and the other mining camps in the Basin. Thomas & Co. run from Wallula via Walla Walla, to Uniontown every other day. It will be seen by this arrangement, passengers below can be sure of leaving for Idaho each and every day.—[Umatilla Ad.

The Springfield, Illinois, State Journal has been shown by some gentlemen from Iowa the identical "Kirkham's Grammar" which Mr. Lincoln studied while living in Petersburgh, Menard county, Illinois, about the year 1830. It was presented by Mr. Lincoln to the present Capt. R. B. Rutledge, now of Burlington, Iowa, with whose father Mr. Lincoln boarded at the time. It originally bore upon the flyleaf the name of Abraham Lincoln, with these not unfamiliar lines: "steal not this book, &c." but this has been torn out by subsequent usage. The volume which is highly valued for its associations is still the property of Captain Rutledge.

PROOF.—The documents are in the possession of the authorities at Washington, showing that a bill passed the second reading in the rebel Congress in 1864 and probably was finally adopted in secret session legalizing the starvation of prisoners, the murder of negroes, the burning of Northern cities and the assassination of the heads of our Government.

Three of the four candidates for the Presidency in 1860 are now dead: Douglas, Bell and Lincoln. If the fourth should bring his valuable life to a close the people could stand it.

The Richmond Whig says the war spirit in the South is utterly and entirely dead out, and the chivalry may talk until their tongues fall out but never again fire the Southern heart.

DECAY OF THE TEETH.—Arises from various causes, but principally it may be attributed to early neglect, ill health, or the indiscriminate use of tooth powders containing mineral or deleterious acids which give a momentary whiteness to the teeth while they corrode the enamel. The extreme prevalence of this last cause is too well known to need comment. To this fact is to be principally attributed the long [illegible] of research which terminated in the greatest discovery ever given to the world for the preservation of the teeth and gums and purifying the breath. Fragrant Sozodont.

Sold by Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers everywhere, 75 cents per bottle.

The Vaudois Missionary.

[illegible] from the Valley, to proclaim the glorious gospel, but humble [illegible] of the [illegible] the truth by carrying some [illegible] of the [illegible] their own hands, which they engaged [illegible] found [illegible]

The [illegible] truths of the Waldense [illegible] were published in the London [illegible]

[illegible] lady [illegible] silks of rare
And [illegible] and rare,
[illegible] of India's loom,
Which beauty's self [illegible] wear.
And these pearls are pure and mild to behold,
And with radiant light they vie,
I have brought them with me a weary way—
Will my gentle lady buy?"

And the lady smiled on the worn old man,
Thro' her dark and clustering curls,
Which veiled her brow, as she bent to view
His silks and glittering pearls,
And she placed their price in the old man's hand,
And lightly turned away,
But she paused at the wanderer's earnest call—
"My gentle lady, stay."

"O lady fair, I've yet a gem,
Which a purer lustre flings
Than the diamond flash of the jewelled crown
On the lofty brow of kings—
A wonderful pearl of exceeding price,
Whose virtue shall not decay,
Whose light shall be as a spell to thee
And a blessing on thy way."

The lady glanced at the mirroring steel,
Where her youthful form was seen,
Where her eyes shone clear and her dark locks waved
Their clasping pearls between;
"Bring forth the pearl of exceeding worth,
Thou traveler gray and old,
And name the price of thy precious gem,
And my pages shall count thy gold."

The cloud went off from the pilgrim's brow,
As a small and meagre book,
Unchased with gold or diamond gem,
From his folding robe he took.
"Here, lady fair, is the pearl of price,
May it prove as such to thee,
And keep thy gold, for I ask it not,
For the word of God is free."

The hoary traveler went his way,
But the gift he left behind
Hath had its pure and perfect work
On that high born maiden's mind,
And she hath turned from her pride of sin,
To the lowliness of truth,
And given her youthful heart to God
In her beautiful hour of youth.

And she hath left the old gray walls,
Where an evil faith hath power,
The courtly knights of her father's train
And the maidens of her bower,
And she has gone to the Vaudois vale,
By lordly feet untrod,
Where the poor and needy of earth are rich,
In the perfect love of God.

"Spare Them."—Charles D. Drake of St. Louis, in a letter lately addressed to the people of Missouri, urging them to adopt the new State Constitution, comes after the sympathizers with discomfited rebels in this manner:

Spare, we pray you, spare Secessionists and Sympathizers from disfranchisement! for has not "the doctrine of the right of secession, and of State sovereignty, for more than half a century been instilled into their minds?" That is, spare the robber, the incendiary, the murderer, because for more than half a century his kindred and associates have instilled into his mind that it is right for him to rob, and burn, and kill, when he can profit by it!

Spare them! for did not Jefferson and Randolph teach this doctrine? and were not Jefferson and Randolph Virginians—the wisest Virginians that ever lived,—and more worthy to be followed than James Madison and George Washington?

Spare them! for did not the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of '98 boldly and clearly avow this doctrine? and were not those resolutions the absolute sum of all political verity, and the very political Bible of Virginians, Kentuckians, and all other devotees of slavery?

Spare them! for is it any wonder that they were misled in the onset of the revolution? That is, send not the forger, the thief, or the perjurer to the penitentiary; for is it any wonder that he was misled by the bad doctrine inculcated upon him?

Spare them! for did not their fathers and leaders teach them State sovereignty? That is, spare the sinner; for his father before him, and the leaders of his gang, taught him that the Devil was sovereign, and it was a "venial sin", therefore, for him to rebel against God.

Spare them! for "there seemed to be a double and contradictory allegiance—allegiance to the State and allegiance to the United States"; and how could they, poor things! tell which was the allegiance for them? tell whether to say "Good Lord" or "Good Devil?"

Spare them, Oh spare them! for is it surprising that they should have made mistakes, and would it be just to treat them harshly for such blunders? "And moreover, would it not be inhuman and diabolical to impose penalties upon them, when we are the conquerors?" Nay, "should we not rather embrace them with kindness, now that the morning star of peace is shining brightly?"

The Plot to Burn Northern Cities.—The Chicago Tribune publishes a statement, bearing the impress of truth, which implicates Jeff. Davis as an accessory to the attempt to burn New York and other Northern Cities. The authority is the Rev. W. H. Ryder of the First Universalist Church of that city. He paid a visit to Richmond immediately after the evacuation of that city by the rebels, and finding heaps of papers scattered all around the State House, picked up many and preserved them for exhibition. On his return home he examined the mass, and found several very interesting documents, many bearing the sign manual of Jeff Davis. Among them was a letter written in Richmond, February 11, 1865, addressed to Davis, asking his attention to a matter about which the writer had formerly held a conversation with him. It was a plot to burn and destroy Federal vessels wherever found. The writer states that the secret of the composition (previously spoken of by him) was known only by two men, that its nature was such that it could be used with entire safety, and by persons unacquainted with its use; that men in the military service need not be sent into the "enemy's" country, but that it could be performed by agents; that by its use they could, first, burn every vessel leaving a foreign port for this country; secondly, burn every transport, sent from the northern ports to the South; and thirdly, burn every vessel on the Mississippi river, and carry consternation into the ranks of the [illegible] everywhere. The writer further requested that the "President" would see him, and obtain the required information. On the back of the document was the following endorsement—the name is suppressed:

"Secretary of State, at his convenience, please see [illegible] and learn what plan he has for overcoming the difficulty heretofore experienced.
"February 29th." J. D."

The words "heretofore experienced," certainly indicate that the thing has been tried with Jeff's approval before, and failed; and indeed, after the intimations that have reached us concerning the positive testimony in the possession of the War Department implicating Davis in the assassination conspiracy, it is not difficult to believe that any other infamous plot would have his approval and co-operation so long as it promised injury to the Government or its supporters.

A good many of the late President's enemies, from the time of his journey to Washington before his inauguration up to his death, ridiculed all the precautions taken by the loyal authorities to guard him against assassination. But those precautions, though they no doubt protected his life on many occasions, were undoubtedly far less than they should have been in view of the deep and extensive feelings of malice and vengeance cherished against him by thousands in all sections of this country and in Canada. There is not a rational doubt that there was a conspiracy, deliberately arranged, to assassinate him in Baltimore before he was sworn into office, and the recently published letter of Booth written many months ago would show, even if other evidences were wanting, that the plan of murder was long and carefully brooded over. His murder is a terrible answer to those who have delighted to sneer at him for what was called absurd and ridiculous caution. He had as good nerves as anybody, and it is said of him that all the guards, appointed for his protection, were an annoyance to him which he got rid of whenever he could. He served bravely in the Black Hawk war, and his personal exposure upon one occasion in the present war may be judged of from the fact that one of the group in which he stood was shot down.—Louisville Journal.

Geographers and explorers are holding meetings in London, to consider the feasibility of an expedition to the North Pole; part being in favor of attempting the achievement by dog sleds from the head of Baffin's Bay, and the remainder favoring the attempt by steam vessel via Spitzbergen, which by forcing its way through the pack north of the island, might find itself in an open Polar sea. Both sides are doubtful as to success, nor is there the slightest attempt to show any practical benefit that would result from the expeditions, even if successful.

Roger A. Pryor made a snivelling speech of hypocritical sorrow over the President's murder, at Petersburg, the other day. This Pryor agreed, in 1860, that in case Mr. Lincoln was elected and undertook by force to prevent the secession of a State, he would be "the Brutus to plant a dagger in his heart!"

The Small Courtesies.—I want [illegible] secret. The way to make yourself [illegible] to others is to show them [illegible] The [illegible] the smile, at Mason [illegible] anybody [illegible] but [illegible] you give [illegible] that you do care for them, by showing them the small courtesies, in which there is no parade, whose voice is still to please, and which manifest themselves by tender and affectionate looks and little acts of attention, giving others the preference in every little enjoyment at the table, in the field, walking, sitting or standing. [illegible]

Richmond Real Estate.—A speculator, who went to Richmond some weeks ago to make investments in real estate in a city so doomed with a prospect of [illegible] has just returned here. He made no purchases, for the reason that buildings and lots had already been put up to a high figure, the prices in many instances being three times that charged before the war. Lots in the burnt district cannot be had except at prices as great as those charged a year ago for the same lots with the buildings on them. One informant says the amount per cent is greater than in this city. This is a voluntary tribute of the people to Yankee enterprise and thrift. The only answer to any protest against the exaction being, "Times are changed; this city is going to be a big city now; you Yankees have come."—N. Y. Tribune.

Dr. J. G. Holland is engaged upon a new biography of Abraham Lincoln. The Springfield Republican says he will visit Illinois and Washington at once to obtain the most authentic and [illegible] materials, and expects to present the work to the public within the year.

How the Thing Works.—A Washington correspondent of the [illegible] gives the following [illegible] of [illegible] justice in Missouri.

[illegible]

Case 1. [illegible] Judgment for Nigger.

Case 2. [illegible] Suit dismissed at plaintiff's costs.

The Court stands right, to my judgment. It looks as if the "returned rebels and [illegible]" were likely to get more justice than they want in that district.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

Its action is EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland,
[illegible] Mass.

Gentlemen: [illegible] made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced [illegible]

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers, and you will see that the one it contains is [illegible] enough to support its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we looked McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led me to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc.—their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, being, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb. Place, Padd.; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England; and Ricord of Paris; who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of those horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fœtid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of the complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

☞ Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
